Ruffalo Noel Levitz Consultation

- Completed May 2017
- Included a complete review of (then) current advising systems and practices
- Resulted in a comprehensive set of recommendations for improving advisement at the College.
- Based on the report and recommendations, AVPs and VPs populated and charged the Integrated Advising Board and composed a set of commitments as a framework for the board to work within.

IAB Administrative Sponsor Commitments

- Primary contact for new students is Advising Center at each location.
- Professional Advisors are liaisons to Schools and become advising experts in support of that school.
- At time of acceptance, students assigned a professional advisor.
- During the first semester, there is a handoff to a faculty advisor, in collaboration with Advisement and Transfer Services.
- Event-driven advising and flexible appointments for students who cannot make events for New Students is Primary.
- Flexible appointment-driven advising for Continuing Students

Advising Within a Guided Pathways Framework

- Clarify the pathways
- Help students get on the right pathway early
- Help students stay on their pathway
- Ensure students are learning

Advising Within a Guided Pathways Framework

Clarify the pathways

- Pathways extensions
- Creating and reviewing semester-by-semester course plans
- Web content re: pathways and The Schools @ MCC

Advising Within a Guided Pathways Framework

Help students get on the right pathway early

- Pathway and career exploration at application stage
- Pathways education early on
- Targeted programming and advisement for undeclared students

Advising Within a Guided Pathways Framework

Help students stay on their pathway

- Monitor student program choices and progress toward completing program requirements
- Regularly show students how far along they are in their programs and what they have left to do to complete them
- Identify when students are at risk of deviating from their program plans and intervene to get students back on track
- Schedule courses in a way that enables students to take courses when they need them, plan their lives around school from one term to the next, and complete their programs on time
- Help students learn to use campus and program-related technology tools

Advising Within a Guided Pathways Framework

Ensure students are learning

- Align program courses with labor market and transfer partner wants/needs
- Liberal Arts advisory boards
- MCC General Education Plan
- MCC's robust course and program evaluation process

Integrated Advising and Guided Pathways share the same foundational goal:

Improving the Student Experience
To increase student success
