

THE SOCIOLOGY FILM SERIES PRESENTS

SOYLENT GREEN

April 12th
6pm
Room 5-300

The year is 2022. Overcrowding, pollution, and resource depletion have reduced society's leaders to finding food for the teeming masses. The answer is Soylent Green -- an artificial nourishment whose actual ingredients are not known by the public. A riveting science-fiction film and cautionary tale that holds a mirror to a tomorrow rife with ecological disaster.

1973, Directed by Richard Fleischer.
Based on the novel by Harry Harrison.

Starring Charlton Heston, Leigh Taylor-Young & Edward G. Robinson.

Susan Belair (Sociology) will introduce the film and lead a discussion to follow.

The film is free and open to the MCC community and the public. Light refreshments will be served.

Sponsored by the Anthropology/History/
Political Science/Sociology Department

For further information contact: Bethany Gizzi
(bgizzi@monroecc.edu or 292-3284)