

DAVID BARNET

EDUCATION

Ph. D. in Political Science, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, MD
Specialization: Political Theory Minor Fields: Public Law, Philosophy
M.A. in Political Science, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, MD
B.A. in Political Science, Reed College, Portland, OR

Dr. Barnett is currently the Director of the Liberal Arts Division for the University of Michigan at Shanghai Jiao Ton University Joint Institute. Prior to his current position, Dr. Barnett was the Director of Academic Planning at John Jay College of Criminal Justice at CUNY, and the Director of Education Partnerships, also at John Jay College. During his tenure at John Jay, in addition to his full-time responsibilities, he also served as Consultant to New Community College Initiative for CUNY . Previous to his time at John Jay, Dr. Barnett served as the Director of Academic Programs at the School of Liberal Studies and Continuing Education at SUNY Purchase, the Assistant Director of Academic Programs for the School of Public Affairs, Baruch College, CUNY. In addition to his current role as Director, Dr. Barnett is also a Professor in Shanghai for the University of Michigan – Shanghai Jiao Tong University Joint Institute where he teaches various writing, sociology and political science courses. Previous faculty appointments include John Jay College of Criminal Justice, CUNY, Baruch College School of Public Affairs, CUNY, New York University, School of Continuing Education and as a Teaching Assistant at Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Barnett has presented at numerous conferences with the New York State Political Science Association, the Northeast Political Science Association and the American Political Science Association . In 2010, Dr. Barnett served as the Principal Investigator in obtaining a US Department of Education, Title V Grant, “Enhancing Student Success in Criminal Justice,” in collaboration with Bronx Community College, totaling $3.7 million.