Caitlin Yarsky is an illustrator with a BFA from RIT in 2008. Her career started in game design at Workinman Interactive. She did many art and music projects in Rochester NY, including a mural for Wall/Therapy. Later she went freelance and got into comics, starting with her first published book (Coyotes, written by Sean Lewis) at Image Comics. She then went on to draw another Image book with Lewis called Bliss, and has done numerous covers for Titan, Dark Horse, Image, Boom! Studios, where she wrote/drew a short story for Boom!'s Buffy: Generations series. She is currently working on a series called Black Hammer Reborn with Jeff Lemire, and lives in Portland, Oregon.
