

REENAH GOLDEN

PRESENTATION: POETS AS AGENTS OF CHANGE

This solo spoken word performance will look at poetry as an act of social justice. Socially political poetry will be presented with commentary that deals with race, class and gender, exploring social issues relative to our community. Presentation will end with a talk-back, so students can ask questions and contribute their thoughts on the content presented.

MON. NOVEMBER 1, 2010
12-1
ROOM 4-151
DAMON CITY CAMPUS

Writer, poet and performance artist, Reenah Golden enjoys using the power of the spoken word to stimulate new ways of thinking. For her poetic endeavors, she won an Arts Council Individual Artist Award and Writers & Books' award as 2006 Teacher of Writing to Youth. She is also a published journalist and an independent television producer and host.

Sponsored by DCC Campus Engagement Committee and Student Events and Governance Association (SEGA)
Supported by MCC Student Life Fees