When you're away at college and immersed in studying, sports, and social activities, disaster planning might seem like the furthest thing from your mind. However, in reality, a crisis can develop anywhere, at anytime. A little advance planning can save you valuable moments later and, quite possibly, your life. Believe it or not, emergency preparedness is relatively simple and easy to fit into your campus lifestyle.

Know what to do before, during and after an emergency. Learn how to assemble a disaster supplies kit that contains the food, water, and other supplies in sufficient quantity for individuals and their families to survive. Learn what it means to "shelter in place". Learn when to evacuate and its process, the Federal role and what to do once you return home after a disaster.
