In 1932, Joseph Stalin and other Bolshevik leaders created a famine in order to prevent Ukrainian independence. The result was the state-sponsored murder of over 10 million people through starvation, including 3 million children. This genocide is referred to as Holodomor, which when translated means "death by hunger." Learn about this "hidden genocide" and discover how it continues to impact Ukrainian culture from Professor Emeritus Taras Hunczak, Ph.D., international scholar of Ukrainian and Russian history.

Tickets available at www.monroecctickets.com, the R. Thomas Flynn Campus Center Service Desk or the Damon City Campus Bookstore. For more information, please call (585) 292-3399.
