

Monroe Community College

A Pocket Style Manual

Sixth Edition

with
Writing in the Disciplines

Diana Hacker
Nancy Sommers

Monroe Community College
STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK

Interested in a straightforward, interdisciplinary approach to help students with the basics of effective grammar, punctuation, mechanics, and citation?

Join us in support for MCC's custom style manual:
Hacker's Pocket Style Manual
(ISBN: 978-1-319-04449-7).

Here's a preview of the topics in our Fall 2015 edition:

Why Write? Why Research?
Writing in the Humanities, Social Sciences, & Natural Sciences
Academic Writing and Reading
Learning to Read Critically, Learning to Write Critically
Campus Resources

Clarity, Grammar, Punctuation, Mechanics
MLA, APA, Chicago, CSE

Writing In the Disciplines

"Above all other skills, writing a clear thesis, providing eloquent persuasion, and engaging a skeptical reader guarantees your success at a career and at life."
~Michael McDonough, MCC Provost 2011-2014

A Pocket Style Manual has been a staple of good grammar, research, and documentation advice for over a decade at Monroe Community College and colleges and universities across the nation. With the publication of this custom edition of A Pocket Style Manual, Monroe Community College endeavors to embrace writing and its power to transform students' lives. Inside this text, contributing faculty members aim to introduce writing, reading, and research concepts to get students started on their goals to improve written expression.

Monroe Community College
STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK

bedford
ST. MARTIN'S
Custom Publishing
bedfordstmartins.com

Order the style guide as a resource for your classes.

Ask students to use the guide to look up grammar and citation practices.

Come to a workshop using the guide.

Interested in joining us or learning more about the style guide?
Contact Angelique Johnston, English Faculty & Composition Co-Coordinator at ajohnston@monroecc.edu.