

MCC's 43rd Annual

Writing Contest

Sponsored by
The English & Philosophy Department

Rules and Applications available at the English Department Office
(Brighton 5-532 or Damon 4225).

Materials are due no later than noon Monday, April 7, 2014.

$50 and $100 Cash Prizes

Awarded at a Prestigious Awards Ceremony

ESSAYS

Callan Award

A thesis-driven research essay
(not to exceed 4,000 words).

Rice Award

A creative nonfiction essay (not to exceed 2,000 words).

Cooney Award

An essay that analyzes/explicates one or more works of literature
(not to exceed 2,000 words).

McMurry Award

A thesis-driven essay in philosophy (not to exceed 2,000 words).

FICTION & POETRY

Langlois Award

A piece of short fiction (not to exceed 3,000 words).

Cloos-Susskind Award

A single poem (not to exceed 60 lines).

Publication in MCC's Cabbages & Kings

If you have any questions, contact Professor Angelique Johnston at 292.3270 or ajohnston@monroecc.edu.

English/Philosophy Department Writing Contest

Monroe Community College and the English/Philosophy Department would like to showcase our student's best essays, poems, and short fiction. Please enter the 43rd Annual English/Philosophy Writing Contest. Student winners are named in May and invited to an awards reception with their professors and include recognition, a monetary award, and a chance to qualify for a national competition with the League of Innovation for Community Colleges.

Essays may be submitted in the following categories:

- ~ Callan Award for best research essay: A thesis-driven research essay (not to exceed 4,000 words). This is a new category this year. Please encourage students to enter.
- ~ Rice Award for best creative nonfiction essay: A creative nonfiction essay (not to exceed 2,000 words).
- ~ Cooney Award for best literary essay: An essay that analyzes/explicates one or more works of literature (not to exceed 2,000 words).
- ~ Cloos-Susskind Award for best poem: A single poem (not to exceed 60 lines).
- ~ Langlois Award for best short fiction: A piece of short fiction (not to exceed 3,000 words).
- ~ McMurry Award for best philosophical essay: A thesis-driven essay in philosophy (not to exceed 2,000 words).

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

- ~ The department is currently accepting submissions with a submission deadline of: 12:00 p.m., Monday, April 7, 2014.
- ~ Only Fall 2013 or Spring 2014 "for credit" MCC students may enter.
- ~ All submissions must be submitted by both hard copy and electronic copy and must be accompanied by the English/Philosophy Department Writing Contest Entry Form, which you can find in the English Department Offices (Brighton 5-532 or Damon 4225) or by email (tmorrill@monroecc.edu).
- ~ Each manuscript and completed entry form must be left in 5-532 with Tina Morrill on the MCC Brighton Campus or in Room 4225 with Anne Kirkpatrick on the Damon City Campus and by email (tmorrill@monroecc.edu).
- ~ Winners only will be asked for a digital version and an additional League entry form to be entered into the national contest.
- ~ All submissions must be typed, double spaced, on 8 ½ by 11 paper. Work should be submitted free of the writer's or professor's name identifying the entry, free of markings, and free of grammatical and mechanical errors.
- ~ Winners will be announced early May 2014.
- ~ Materials submitted must be original and previously unpublished in any college publications.

If you have any questions, please contact Professor Angelique Johnston at ajohnston@monroecc.edu.

Angelique Johnston
English / Philosophy
12/2/2013