Jasna
Bogdanovska,
professor of
photography,
was artist-
in-residence
at Gullkistan

Center for Creativity in Laugarvatn, Iceland in 2014. During this month long trip, Professor Bogdanovska, traveled throughout the country doing extensive research and photography. Iceland, located on and in-between the Eurasian and North American tectonic plates was the ideal backdrop for her photographic study on how location connects to identity, memory, nostalgia, and belonging. Join Prof. Bogdanovska on a visual, intuitive, exploration of the duality of identity through the extreme landscape between glaciers and volcanoes.
