Monroe Community College Catcher's Camp:

Monroe Community College is well known for its strong tradition of outstanding catchers. MCC backstops have earned numerous All-Region, All-District, and All-American honors throughout the years. These awards have been based not only on offensive production, but on defensive excellence as well.

Many Tribune catchers have been honored for their outstanding play. 2008 alum Cory Brownsten was a first team All-American and was the EastonT Defensive Player of the Year. He was drafted in the 15th round of the 2010 Major League Baseball Draft by the Atlanta Braves and currently plays in their farm system. Brownsten and current MCC catcher AJ Kehlenbeck have also been recipients of NJCAA Rawlings Gold Gloves for their superior defensive skills.

The camp has a wide-ranging array of drills to develop young catchers. The techniques, drills, and philosophies preached to MCC catchers are in turn taught to the campers to further develop their skills. Numerous boys and girls who have attended have gone on to excel at the position. The camp allows the time needed to focus on a position that is so important to the game of baseball. Techniques of the position are taught and refined with a multitude of drills focused on throwing mechanics, blocking, receiving, pitch-calling, bunt coverage, covering home plate, and becoming a team leader.

Camp Staff and Bios:

David Brust - MCC Head Baseball Coach

Coach Brust is also working the Catcher's Camp for the 15th year. An All-American at MCC in 1987, he went on to play at Ball State where he was a captain and two-time team MVP. Brust played professionally in the Atlanta Braves organization from 1989 to 1992. Two of those seasons were spent playing for the Durham Bulls under former Boston Red Sox and Los Angeles Dodger manager Grady Little. He was the head coach and general manager for the Webster Yankees of the New York Collegiate Baseball League.

Tony Fuller - MCC Assistant Baseball Coach

Coach Fuller is in his 5th year as a coach in the MCC baseball program. As a player, Fuller helped lead the Tribunes to regional titles in 2005 and 2006. He was an All-Region selection his sophomore season as MCC set a then-school record with 40 wins. He continued on and played two years at the University of Buffalo, where he was also a volunteer assistant coach. He has also been the head coach of the Braman Post American Legion team. Fuller currently finished his second year as head coach of the Hornell Dodgers in the New York Collegiate Baseball League.

Ryan Sullivan

Coach Sullivan has 5 years of experience as a student athlete and 3 more coaching at the NJCAA level for Monroe Community College. His players have achieved selections to regional and national teams as well as the NJCAA Div. II Gold Glove Award Winner in 2011 (AJ Kehlenbeck). Coach Sullivan is the premiere catching instructor in the Rochester area and we are very lucky to have him as our lead instructor for catchers camp. Coach Sullivan is in his 8th year participating in MCC's catchers camp.
