“Zombi” is about a Spanish family that has an aging parent, the wife’s father, who’s suffering from dementia, living with them. His memory loss and the need for constant care put pressure on all the members of the family. It’s a thought-provoking film that, in only 15 minutes, tackles important topics such as family ties, aging and dying.

Ever since he has been combining writing feature film scripts like La Boda (second winner of Spanish Television Academy’s Pilar Miró Prize), with screenplays for successful television series (Hospital Central, Acusados –Telecinco-), and working as a director on music videos and commercials. In 2009 he wrote and directed his first short film, Socarrat, selected in more than 200 festivals worldwide and winner of more than 60 awards.
