SVL 101 Service-Learning Seminar

Service-Learning Seminar SVL 101 (3 credit hours): This course is designed for students to identify and analyze a socially significant need facing the local community and develop and implement a plan to address such a need. Students will examine why this need exists and identify areas of strength to apply to the issue. The course will cover such topics as ethical implications of service, citizenship development, motivation to serve, global issues of service and more. Students will complete critical reflection assignments and exercises that strengthen problem-solving and leadership skills while developing connections with people of diverse cultures and lifestyles. Service-learners are required to serve 135 hours over the course of the semester.

Service-Learning courses give students an opportunity to bring their classroom learning to life while giving back to the Rochester community.

- ★ Work study money available for students who meet financial aid eligibility
